A PAIR OF V-LEG ARMCHAIRS

Pierre Jeanneret

Description

Original Pierre Jeanneret v-leg Armchairs.

Swiss-born architect and furniture designer Pierre Jeanneret (1896-1967) worked for most of his life alongside his cousin Le Corbusier. In 1926 they published their manifesto "Five Points Towards a New Architecture" which served as the backbone for their architectural aesthetic. The Villa Savoye (1928-1931) serves as a representation for their outlined ideology. An elegant building predominantly made out of glass with an almost undivided interior and columns, which made it look as if it was floating above the ground.
